To Whom It May Concern,

Having had the Cellar Control system installed now for 14 months we are very satisfied with its performance. We were advised against installing it by a brewery rep because the system had not as yet proved itself in the marketplace.

There has been no negative feedback from customers regarding beer quality, including taste and smell, which indicates we are selling a high quality product as we have always done.

The savings have been significant in beer wastage, labour, chemical costs and of course, the environment. The wastage savings both at the tap and flowback fob amount to approx 11 kegs per annum.

I have no hesitation recommending the Cellar Control system as it has proven itself to us.
